STATEWIDE PUBLIC EDUCATION IMPROVEMENT: HOW FAR WE'VE COME; HOW MUCH FURTHER TO GO

A talk by Louisiana State Superintendent of Education John White

Wednesday, October 5, 2016
12:10 pm-1:30 pm
Contact cprl@law.columbia.edu

Columbia Law School
Jerome Greene, Room 101
435 West 116th Street

Pizza will be served

About the Event
Increasingly, efforts to improve schooling are coming from inside the system. Louisiana State Superintendent of Education John White provides a model of state leadership in school improvement. Join us as one of the most influential leaders in education reflects on some of his state’s successes and outlines areas for continued progress.

About the Speaker
After leading the recovery of schools in New Orleans following Hurricane Katrina, John White was named Louisiana’s State Superintendent in 2012. Prior to his role in Louisiana, Superintendent White served as Deputy Schools Chancellor for the New York City Department of Education.

Co-Sponsors

Columbia University Center for Public Research and Leadership
James S. Liebman, Director

Department of Education Policy and Social Analysis
Teachers College, Columbia University

Education Law & Policy Society