Other Former Fellows and Sponsoring Organizations

In addition to the recent Fellowships described elsewhere in this brochure, Fellows have worked on a wide variety of projects benefitting New York City’s underprivileged and underserved during the nearly twenty years that the Kirkland & Ellis New York City Public Service Fellowships have been awarded. These efforts include:

Former New York University School of Law Fellows:
- Christine Chiu: African Services Committee
- Julia Dietz: Make the Road New York
- Melissa Banks: African Services Committee
- Jennifer Friedman: The Bronx Defenders
- Amanda Lockshin: The Legal Aid Society
- Zabrina Aleguire: The Door’s Legal Services Center
- Leora Borch: Housing Works
- Stacey Strongarone: Center for the Practice & Study of Community Problem Solving
- Kim Seelinger: Lutheran Family & Community Services, Inc.

Former Columbia Law School Fellows:
- Shana Khader: New York Legal Assistance Group
- Kate Stinson: African Services Committee
- Anne Gei: Sanctuary for Families
- Elizabeth Howell: Center for Appellate Litigation
- Rachel Geballe: South Brooklyn Legal Services
- Kate Wagner-McCoy: The Bronx Defenders
- Franklin Romeo: Lambda Legal Defense & Education Fund
- Valentina Marie Morales: Neighborhood Defender Service of Harlem
- Naomi M. Abraham: Center for Family Representation
- Rodrigo Sanchez-Camus: Urban Justice Center

---

Kirkland & Ellis LLP

Kirkland & Ellis LLP is a preeminent, full-service law firm with approximately 1,500 attorneys practicing in New York, Beijing, Chicago, Houston, Hong Kong, London, Los Angeles, Munich, Palo Alto, San Francisco, Shanghai, and Washington, DC. Its clients range from Fortune 100 companies to medium and small corporations, financial institutions, and leveraged buyout and venture capital firms.

Kirkland & Ellis LLP’s New York office opened in 1990 with 12 attorneys. Since then, the office has grown to over 350 lawyers.

In 1995, in celebration of its five-year anniversary in New York City, Kirkland & Ellis LLP decided to signal its commitment to the community by giving something back to the City. The Firm also wanted to create an alliance that would enhance its already strong relationships with New York University School of Law and Columbia Law School and encourage a spirit of cooperation between the schools themselves. The Kirkland & Ellis New York City Public Service Fellowships were the result of this vision.

---

To Apply

To receive an application, or for more information, please contact:

New York University School of Law
Public Interest Law Center
245 Sullivan Street, Room 430
New York, New York 10012. (212) 998-6686

Columbia Law School
Social Justice Initiatives
410 West 116th Street, Box B-26
New York, New York 10027, (212) 854-8360

Kirkland & Ellis LLP
David S. Flugman
601 Lexington Avenue
New York, New York 10022, (212) 446-4800
What are the Fellowships?

The Kirkland & Ellis New York City Public Service Fellowships at New York University School of Law and Columbia Law School were established in 1995. Kirkland & Ellis LLP made a gift of $1,000,000 to New York University School of Law and Columbia Law School to provide an outstanding student from each school year the opportunity for a year of postgraduate public service in New York City. For more information, visit the NYU and Columbia “Careers” pages at www.kirkland.com.

Who can be a Fellow?

Each year, one Fellow is selected from the graduating class of New York University School of Law and one from the graduating class of Columbia Law School. The Fellowships are intended to meet serious human needs in New York City; the Fellow and sponsoring organization must be based within the five boroughs of New York City and the Fellow’s project must principally and directly benefit New York City residents. Fellows may create and fill a new position within an already-existing organization or pursue an independent project affiliated with a sponsoring organization. The Firm is committed to a broad and inclusive concept of public service.

Fellows are selected for their personal integrity and potential to make a contribution to the New York City community. Fellows will be selected without regard to race, color, creed, religion, sex, pregnancy or childbirth, personal appearance, family responsibilities, sexual orientation, gender identity, political affiliation, source of income, place of residence, national or ethnic origin, ancestry, age, genetic information, marital status, military veteran status, unfavorable discharge from military service, physical or mental disability, or any other basis prohibited by applicable law.

Terms and Salary

The term of the Fellowship is one year. Fellows are funded annually at a salary of $45,000.

Upon completion of the Fellowship year, Fellows will be asked to submit to Kirkland & Ellis LLP a brief letter summarizing what they accomplished during the preceding year, how the fellowship year has impacted their future plans, and their contact information at their next job.

Selection Process

The selection process consists of a written application and interview. The timetable is as follows:

- Application Deadline
  January 20, 2015

- Interviews Conducted
  February 6, 2015
  Selection of Fellows will be announced that day

- Fellows Commence Work
  September 2015

Recent Kirkland & Ellis Fellows

Naz Ahmad of Columbia Law School and Shlomit Cohen of New York University School of Law were selected as the 2014-15 Kirkland & Ellis Fellows. Naz is working with the Creating Law Enforcement Accountability & Responsibility Project to investigate and defend against improper surveillance and racial profiling of Muslim communities. Shlomit is working with the Bronx Defenders representing parents with mental disabilities in abuse, neglect, and termination of parental rights proceedings in Bronx Family Court.

Dahsong Kim of New York University School of Law and Sarah McCarthy of Columbia Law School were selected as the 2013-14 Kirkland & Ellis Fellows. Dahsong worked with the Asian American Legal Defense and Education Fund providing linguistically and culturally competent services to Asian immigrant victims of trafficking in New York City. Sarah worked with the Children’s Law Center representing adopted children who are returned to Family Court because their adoptions are no longer viable.

Jessica Rubin-Wills of New York University School of Law and Faliza Said and Kate Moore of Columbia Law School were selected as the 2012-13 Kirkland & Ellis Fellows. Jessica worked with Advocates of Children of New York to provide direct representation, community education, and policy advocacy to assist low-income preschoolers at risk of academic difficulties assess the services they need to succeed in school. Faliza worked with inMotion to provide direct legal services to South Asian victims of abuse, with a sub-focus on Muslim women, and to build a long-term infrastructure to address systemic problems of abuse in these communities. Kate worked with the Bronx Defenders to provide direct legal representation for parents with mental or cognitive disabilities in cases alleging neglect or abuse in Bronx Family Court.